Police Commissioners' Report.

EXETER, February 14, 1903.

The Police Commissioners of Exeter present the following report :

On April 1st George A. Wentworth was re-elected Chairman and Albion Burbank, Clerk.

On the first Tuesday of each month the Board has been in session for the purpose of listening to complaints and transacting necessary business.

Orders to the amount of $2,735.50 have been drawn on the Town Treasurer to defray the expenses of the department.

The unusually quiet and orderly condition of our streets during the past year has been the subject of remark not only by our own citizens, but also by visitors from other towns. This has been due in no small degree to the faithful and efficient efforts of the Superintendent of Police and his aids.

The number of arrests for disorderly conduct and other causes has been considerably smaller than usual.

There has also been a diminution in the number of both voluntary and involuntary occupants of the rather uninviting reception room in the basement of the Town Hall.

A detailed account of the arrests and causes thereof may be seen in the Superintendent's report.

Remarks.

THE DEPARTMENT. — The very remarkable exemption from fires and alarms and from serious and even ordinary conflagrations the last year is a cause of general congratulation. Other towns and cities in the State have been visited, and in a great many instances the losses have been largely in excess of previous years, but we have escaped almost untouched. With the various kinds of fuel that have been used this winter, and no fire to speak of, Exeter has been very fortunate. In the meantime, there has been no lack of interest upon the part of the department, whose discipline has been of the best. It has always been ready, and it is very pleasant to see the interest manifested by the department, and the ambition that each company shows to get to the fire as soon as possible. Encouragement should be given the different companies. This can be brought about by an effort on the part of the Board of Engineers, backed by the town, to afford the companies all that is reasonable to keep their houses and apparatus in fine order, allowing all reasonable expense to that end, and thereby accomplish the objects desired.

HOUSES.—Steamer house is in good condition with the exception of the painting of the inside. Some attention will have to be given to the heating apparatus next year. Hose house No. 1 has been painted two coats on the outside, and a new runway built, and is all right for a number of years. Hose house No. 2 is in first class shape. Hose house No. 3 never was right, not half big enough. I am in hopes that the incoming Board of Engineers will give this house their attention in the near future. This can be accomplished after all the hose that is needed is bought, provided that the department don't have to buy any more horses. Hook and Ladder house has received some attention this year. The stove had to be removed, as it was too near the truck and blistering the paint. It should be papered and painted.

APPARATUS.—The Archibald wheels for the steamer have been fitted and make a decided improvement in looks as well as in safety. In my last report the Board of Engineers thought that the proper thing would be ball bearing wheels. By advice we did not get them. Ball bearing wheels are a good thing where there is a constant use for them, but where the vehicle or machine stands idle a good deal of the time they don't work so well.

The steamer hose carriage tires had to be reset. Mr. Vroom, the blacksmith, who did the job, tells us the wheels are about gone. No wonder after 29 years of service. My judgment would be to buy new axles and fit the old steamer wheels to them, and you would then have something that would last a long time, and the expense would be small, compared to new wheels. All the rest of the apparatus is in apple pie order, and right here let me congratulate the different companies for the very neat and tasty way they keep their houses and apparatus in. Especial credit should be given Hose No. 1 for the putting in of a tapper in their house, mostly at their own expense. It shows great interest.

THE TOWN TEAM.—This is the one branch of the department that gives the Board of Engineers that tired feeling. The town team cost the fire department about $800 to run this year, and what results did the fire department get? None whatever. There always were until lately certain limits that the town team could not go beyond. They were as follows: Hampton road, Bailey Smith's corner; Kensington road, Little River bridge; old Haverhill road, Little bridge; Newmarket road, Furnald's coal wharf, and not beyond the railroad crossing, as freight trains were liable to be there at any time, causing a delay of from five to ten minutes. This year they have been down as far as the Hampton Falls road on Hampton road; close to the Stratham boundary line; railroad bridge on Newmarket road; Nealey's pit about one-half mile above railroad crossing, and close to Kensington line on Kensington road, about two miles from steamer house. What would be the results if an alarm should come in when the horses are at any of these places? Practically no results. It is all right as long as we never have been caught in this trap, but when we do, and it happens to be a serious fire, and Messrs. Underwriters come to town, what will they tell us? To keep the driver and horses in the steamer house and used for no other purpose but fire. And who will be blamed? Why, the Board of Engineers, sure. If the fire department has to pay for the maintenance of the team, it should have something to say about its care and where it should go. And this is what it would say: That it should not go beyond the old limits; that the horses should be trained and hitched to the steamer with the striking of the tapper in the house at least three times a week. We have everything for quickness in the steamer house, quick hitch, gong down stairs, bell up stairs, two men sleeping in house, and it seems a pity to see the way the horses come out to an alarm. Instead of coming on a run with their ears pricked up and taking their places under the harness, ready for business, they have to be actually dragged out. In two months' time these horses could be taught what a fire alarm was, and what was wanted of them. And why isn't it so?

HOSE.—This is the one thing that the department needs most. Every hose company to be properly equipped should be provided with 1,500 feet of good hose, 800 feet in the wagon at all times and 700 feet in reserve. The steamer company should have 3,000 feet of hose, for we don't know at what time it will need it. With a big fire and the steamer playing three streams at a long distance, it takes hose. At the Peltier fire on the Epping road, the steamer and Hose 1 companies had to double up on hose, and such a line of hose is seldom seen; there was almost as much water in the road as was put on the fire, caused by leaky hose. With but 4,900 feet of hose, good, fair and poor, and four companies to be provided, it is obvious to any one that we are lacking in a most essential part of our equipment, for without proper means of conveying water to a fire the best department in existence is powerless. The Board of Engineers, the last year, have been very economical, perhaps a little too much so, but wholly for the sole purpose of buying hose. We would have purchased 1,500 feet of hose but for the purchase of the town horses; as it is, we purchased 600 feet. Superintendent Tilton's sewer hose gave out last fall and the department loaned him 600 feet to complete flushing with. We would advise the town to buy cheap hose for such purposes. Fire hose is too expensive, and there is nothing so injurious to hose in frosty weather as bending, and this has to be done in flushing sewers by carting it from place to place. It cracks the rubber inside. The town can buy hose, good enough for this purpose, from ten to twenty cents a foot, and it will last a long time with proper care.

FIRE ALARM.—We have added a new circuit to our main alarm, and several call bells to our open circuit. This makes four distinct circuits we have on our main alarm, and I can honestly say that we have as good a system as most places of our size. Of course trouble will come occasionally, as our lines are in some places so near the arc lines. We have added about twenty-four new batteries to the open circuit, and it needs a little more attention to outside line work.

The electrical machine that runs the gong has bothered us a good deal lately. The Board of Engineers have examined it carefully and find that parts of it are pretty well worn out. We thought at first we would have to buy a new machine, but asking advice of the maker we found that we could have new parts made, and with a thorough overhauling it would practically be as good as new and last a number of years. As fires are more frequent this time of the year than at any other, and it would take three or more days to repair it and nothing to depend on for an alarm but the tappers in the firemen's houses and the town bell, we considered it wise to wait until warmer weather.

WATER WORKS.—Superintendent Johnson did a good job last fall. He dug up all the questionable hydrants and put them in proper shape. We have discovered only one frozen hydrant this winter, and, notifying Superintendent Johnson, he promptly put it in order.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.—They are the people that keep us guessing. They will agree to everything and won't do anything. After they got through setting their poles and stringing their wires from the Water Works to Portsmouth avenue it cost the fire department $20.00 to right up its lines, and then it didn't get the location that belonged to it. Some of the worst nights of the winter for a fire the lights were out. The same old story, Exeter is easy.

WIRING.—There is in this town a great quantity of abandoned or dead wires. These wires have had no attention for years, and they soon must surely fall, and when they do in seven places out of ten they will fall on the arc system, thereby causing not only danger of fires but also to lives. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

Charles McLane, a member of Steamer Company No. 1, passed from this life on December 21, 1902. Charles was a good fireman and a faithful friend. He is sadly missed.

To the Selectmen for their generous support and appreciation of the work of the department, to the Assistant Engineers for their hearty co-operation, to the Superintendent of Fire Alarm for his services, to the Police for ready response and willing assistance, to the members of the fire department for their courteous treatment, willing and prompt response to every call, and all others who by word or deed assisted in our work, my acknowledgments are hereby gratefully tendered.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM FLANIGAN, Chief Engineer.

ACROSS THE BROOK.

BY ELIZABETH GARDNER BOUGUEREAU.

Presented to the town of Exeter by the artist, and to be hung in the Robinson Seminary.

Madame Bouguereau's Gift to Exeter.

At the regular meeting of the Trustees of the Robinson Seminary in May, the following communication was received from Perley Gardner, Esq. :

I am in receipt of a letter from my aunt, Mme. Elizabeth Gardner Bouguereau of Paris, in which she says that it is her wish to present one of her original paintings to her native town, and thinks it would be appropriate to hang the same in the Seminary. She desires me to ascertain if it would be acceptable to the town, "in trust, to be hung in the Seminary as long as the institution exists on its present plan." She would make it a condition that the picture be well cared for and hung in a proper place in the Seminary, where it would have both space and light.

The picture, including the frame, measures about six feet by four feet, six inches. It represents two peasant children carrying a younger child in their arms, and is entitled "Across the Brook." My aunt offers to pay the expense of transportation.

Yours truly,

PERLEY GARDNER.

The Trustees and Principal of the Seminary immediately communicated to Madame Bouguereau an expression of their gratitude and pleasure that the picture was to be placed in the keeping of the Seminary and their willingness to preserve it with the utmost care, and to hang it where it could be enjoyed by the townspeople and the public generally.

In response the picture was shipped from Paris and received in Boston early in the summer. For two months it remained on exhibition in Boston at the art galleries of Mr. George C. Folsom, where it was admired and praised by hundreds of art connoisseurs.

Just before the opening of the school year the painting was brought to Exeter and hung in the Principal's office on the first floor of the Seminary building. Later the picture was rehung in a frame case of polished antique oak, with a beveled inner surface covered with silk velvet of a shade of green to harmonize with the shades and tones of the picture. Above it was placed a cluster of four Welsbach burners with heavy shades and reflectors, an arrangement of artificial light which exhibits the delicate beauty of the picture in a very pleasing manner.

Madame Bouguereau has never been a prolific painter, nor given to the appreciative art world nearly as many pictures as it has desired, and the possession of an "Elizabeth Gardner" is a great fortune to any community. "Across the Brook" is one of the great artist's most pleasing works. To Exeter the gift means a great deal. It reminds us all that Madame Bouguereau, though long absent from our midst, in the land of her adoption still remembers and loves her native town. It reminds us that one of the greatest painters of the present time was born and reared in Exeter. The picture, hung on the walls of the Seminary, adds another to the many attractions of our beautiful town to win the interest and presence of cultured strangers, and it will be to us all an inspiration to a deeper love for the pure and beautiful.

At the coming town-meeting, the first opportunity since the gift was offered, the town will desire to place upon record and to convey to Madame Bouguereau its deep sense and appreciation of her rich remembrance of her native town.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

HONORABLE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF ROBINSON SEMINARY :

The close of the last school year and the opening of the present brought a number of changes in the corps of teachers and subjects taught. In June Miss Goddard, who had taught for two years, and Miss Louise Moulton, who had taught for one year, both resigned to be married. In September, Miss Cummings, for two years teacher of French and German, resigned to become the teacher of Modern Languages in the Haverhill, Mass., High School. Miss Wiggin, who for thirteen years had been in charge of the Normal Department, because of the discontinuance of that department, did not return.

In June Miss Helen F. Tredick, a graduate of Smith, a trained specialist in Science, and a teacher of experience, was appointed teacher of Science. In September, Miss Elizabeth N. Fernald, a graduate of Wellesley, who had fitted herself for teaching modern languages, and had an experience of one year in the class room, was elected teacher of French and German.

No one was appointed as a direct successor to Miss Louise Moulton. Physical exercises and Elocution are for the present omitted from the program of study. Physiology in the Preparatory Department, formerly taught by Miss Moulton, is now taught by Miss Tredick. The reading classes are in the charge of Miss Burpee.

The very heavy schedule of daily recitations in the Preparatory Department carried by Miss Baker and Miss Kimball has this year been made somewhat lighter by Miss Tapley's taking more of the Arithmetic classes and Miss Barstow's teaching a part of the Grammar and English of that department. The Civil Government of the Senior Class, long under the direction of Miss Wiggin, is now taught by Miss Barstow.

The best teachers aim to teach pupils rather than classes. Ideal teaching would give special instruction to each pupil, based upon accurate knowledge of the pupil's temperament and characteristics of mind. Small classes with careful and enthusiastic teachers enjoy the highest advantages. We have this year divided some of our larger classes into two sections, each section covering the ground, more or less, that it can to the best advantage. The plan works admirably, but to greatly increased labor and recitation hours for the teachers, and added difficulty in adjusting the recitation schedule.

The Academic Department now stands greatly in need of a teacher in History. Colleges are making rapidly increased demands for preparation in History. We have not now as much time devoted to History in our curriculum as either a well rounded education or the demands of college preparation make desirable. For two years I have omitted English and European history, because I am convinced by careful experiment that the maturity of Junior and Senior year is needed for the appreciation of the subjects. But as the younger classes go up higher the History of England and Europe ought to be taken up next year. The necessary work for college preparation in History is being well done by a teacher whose whole time is needed in her regular department work, and who is teaching History as a matter of accommodation, and because there was no one else whom I could ask to do the work.

If the funds in any way admit it, I would urge that a specially trained teacher of History be employed for the Academic Department next year.

Mrs. Cora K. Bell in her will placed at my command one thousand dollars to be expended for the best interests of the Seminary. Over the first benefaction of an alumna of the Seminary I have pondered long and thoughtfully. Several ends ought to be attained in the expenditure of the money. I wish to secure something that will be a distinct and permanent memorial of Mrs. Bell, a graduate of the Seminary's first class, something that will be a constant witness to the chief characteristic of Mrs. Bell's life—her devout Christian womanhood.

It is my intention to assemble a special library of sacred and Christian art; to obtain as far as I can, somewhat completely the works of value bearing on the subject that are published in English, and a few of special significance that are published in German and Italian ; I wish to illustrate the subject by a rich collection of photographs, engravings and etchings, to be bound into volumes and portfolios. All the volumes and portfolios I shall have made up in a uniform, tasteful binding, and preserved in a handsome case provided with slides, racks, and supports for the safe exhibition and convenient study of the portfolios.

In making a decision to use the money in the way I have outlined above I have been guided not a little by a conviction that I know what would have been the donor's wish.

Mrs. Bell felt a deep interest in the art collection, and particularly in the purchases which I made for the Moses Collection of Architecture and Sculpture. In reply to her inquiry what I would like to do next for the art collection I outlined the above plan, in which she became much interested and to which she referred many times later.

At the outset I am confronted by the fact that our small library room is not suitable for the preservation and use of such a special library. I should therefore like to convert Room 2, which is now used intermittently for recitations, but can be spared to the use of the new library. And I want to ask you to redecorate and refurnish the room at a small expense, against the time I shall have the library ready for installation. I should like to have that room serve the double purpose of a library and reception room for visitors, and to be known as the memorial room.

I would also ask that new floors be laid in the corridors on the first and second stories and that the overhead ceilings in the same, which were painted in water colors and have become discolored and worn, be painted over in oils. I will then have the casts repaired and their surfaces renewed, which will restore the beauty of the halls of the school.

Compared with the past the present is undoubtedly an age of greater rapidity of design and execution, the innumerable adjuncts of modern civilization continually suggesting new wants, which a marvelous ability of invention hastens to supply. It is a day of progressive attainment, of continued advance. The history of human achievement, however, shows that it has not reached this stage by a steady, gradually increasing development, but by a series of advances and halts. Those epochs of progression which mark its onward course have alternated with periods of rest. These periods of rest have become more and more curtailed, until at the present time they may be said to have almost reached a vanishing point, so that to stand still is to retrograde.

The history of the Public Library well illustrates this process of development. Its earliest quarters were doubtless thought sufficient for its present needs, as well as for those which might occur, at least, in the immediate future. Here it remained, increasing slowly its circulation and purchase of new books. This period of incubation passed, we see it installed in its present building, with what was beyond question considered at the time ample interior accommodation for future growth. Since then each year has witnessed an increase in the sphere of its usefulness.

That the town at large will continue to support and maintain the Public Library, recognizing the value of its influence for good, is beyond question. That this influence may be yet more confirmed and assured, the committee would solicit a continuance and increase of private benefactions.

The temper of the times sanctions only advance. We are living in the new era when to stand still is to retrograde.

The number of volumes in the Library exclusive of the Perry collection is close to 13,000. The total circulation of books for the past year has been 26,602; of these, 15,610 were works of fiction, the remainder, 10,992, being devoted to historical, scientific and general literary subjects. During this time 499 new books have been added, 108 of these being credited to the Merrill Fund. At the commencement of the current year the total issue of cards numbered 3,846; 413 additional cards have been issued since, 263 to townspeople and 150 to students.

While works of fiction occupy a prominent place in the catalogue of books purchased during the past year, being in excess of those of more permanent and standard value, yet the number of the latter is in fair proportion to the whole.

The Librarian and her assistants have surely earned the thanks of the public for their unvarying courtesy in attention to the wants of all applicants, and the Committee further recognize their diligence in the performance of their other duties connected with the Library.

The following is a list of books and pamphlets presented, together with the names of the donors: Mrs. D. F. Wells, 1 volume Granite Monthly; Rev. B. F. McDaniel, 2 books; F. S. Frisbie, photos of General and Madame Washington; Edward Tuck, Life of Amos Tuck; Prof. J. P. Hylan, 2 pamphlets; Fred N. Dow, 1 book; Joseph W. Smith, 1 book; Dr. N. E. Soule, 2 books; G. W.
